Specifically, the NGV is required to obtain information as to whether each worker is:

- (a) fully vaccinated; or
- (b) partially vaccinated;
- (c) unvaccinated, with a booking to receive by 2 October 2021, a dose of COVID-19 vaccine; or
- (d) unvaccinated (having not received a dose of the COVID-19 vaccine and not being an excepted person); or
- (e) an excepted person (in that he or she has obtained certification from a medical practitioner that the person is unable, due to a medical contraindication (as defined in the COVID-19 Mandatory Vaccination Directions (No 4) (or any superseding or related Direction), to receive a dose, or a further dose, of COVID-19 vaccination).

Why is NGV collecting this information?

NGV will collect and use the information you provide for the purpose of administering your engagement and/or employment and for demonstrating compliance with its legal obligations in relation to the pandemic. NGV may also use and disclose the information you provide for a related purpose to other parties for the purpose of administering your engagement and/or employment (if applicable), and as otherwise required by law.

What happens if I do not provide this information and evidence?

NGV will not have your confirmation that you have been vaccinated (or that you have a permitted reason not to receive a COVID-19 vaccine), and this will affect the information available for administering your engagement and/or employment, and for NGV's health and safety response to the pandemic. In addition, you will not be permitted to enter or remain on NGV construction sites (currently NGVI, NGVA, North Melbourne, and NGV's offsite carpentry workshop) for the purposes of performing work as a worker.

How will NGV manage my information?

NGV is bound by the Health Records Act 2001 (Vic) in how it manages health information. NGV is committed to protecting the personal and health information of the persons with whom it interacts within the course of its functions and activities.
